Minneapolis, MN, 9/22/2021 – Today the Star Tribune published a commentary article by Republican candidate for Mayor, self-described "candidate-journalist" and "School Bus expert" (he drives one) Bob "Again" Carney Jr., ("bobagain") laying out his agenda for "emergency action" on the Minneapolis and wider Metro school bus crisis. Bobagain will present his seven-point agenda, with additional background, at a 3 PM Wednesday, Sep. 22nd news event -- part of a planned series of "Peaceable Assembly Zone" events for "politically homeless" people – especially former Republicans. The Plaza was the main site of the 2011 Minneapolis Occupy movement. All Minneapolis municipal candidates with e-mails on their Affidavits of Candidacy have been invited; the general public is also invited; a general discussion of everyone's ideas is encouraged.

In addition to his school bus driver-driven expertise, bobagain has an MBA from the U. of M. Carlson school – and has been writing extensively on transit issues for a decade. Two documents are now available as downloads from the votebobagain.com website – a three century history of transit in the Twin Cities, and Demand Transit Revolution, an e-book bobagain wrote for his 2013 campaign for Mayor.

Beyond School Bus "Emergency Action," bobagain calls for "Transit Jungle" investigation

In his STrib commentary, bobagain wrote: "As a candidate-journalist, in the great tradition of Upton Sinclair, I'm working as a school bus driver. However, while I see and hear the challenges daily, I haven't seen a basis for any kind of 'Transit Jungle' expose." In the hours after publication, bobagain has obtained new information indicating there IS a basis, and a need, for a "Transit Jungle" investigation. Although still limited by privacy and employment issues, bobagain will discuss this basis to a limited degree at the 3 PM meeting -- and will also be available to meet with journalists off-the-record to provide more detail – information they can use to pursue their own investigations further.
